Path to Publish - the monthly AJP newsletter

Happy New Year from The American Journal of Pathology! As was mentioned in the last issue of Path to Publish, 2018 starts off with a new Editor-in-Chief in Dr. Martha B Furie, as well as an expanded scope. Read Dr. Furie's welcome editorial in the January issue here. Additionally, there is also an Editorial from ASIP member Dr. Jose Otero, introducing this month's theme issue in Neural Regeneration and Development.

Did you know...

The latest Perspectives article appearing in The American Journal of Pathology, is from current ASIP President Daniel G. Remick and colleagues from Boston University School of Medicine. The article, "Enhancing Scientific Foundations to Ensure Reproducibility" is available online free to all readers.

AJP previously published a Perspectives article from Executive Officer Mark E. Sobel and science policy consultant Jennifer Dreyfus, entitled "Disruptive Influences on Research in Academic Pathology Departments: Proposed Changes to the Common Rule Governing Informed Consent for Research Use of Biospecimens and to Rules Governing Return of Research Results", and is also free for all interested parties to read.

Perspectives articles are considered on an invitation only basis. Any proposal for a Perspectives article can be sent via email to ajp@asip.org for consideration.
