Happy Birthday to Path to Publish! The first issue of Path to Publish was released in June of 2016. We have been happy to bring you the highlights from each issue, tips for submission of new manuscripts, and tidbits regarding the Journal. Did you know...

We may have the word 'American' in the title, but The American Journal of Pathology receives and publishes articles from authors all over the world. So far in 2017, we have received submissions from over 30 countries across 6 continents. We encourage all ASIP members to consider submission- especially our international colleagues!

International manuscripts account for almost 45% of initial submissions, and 40% of the accepted content that appears in the Journal. Currently, most of our international content comes from researchers in Japan, followed closely by Germany and France. This year we are pleased to have received submissions from countries new to AJP, including Tanzania, Morocco, and Tunisia.
