Mission

The mission of the Society is to promote the discovery, advancement, and dissemination of basic and translational knowledge in experimental pathology and related disciplines. This shall be achieved by fostering investigation into the pathogenesis, classification, diagnosis, and manifestations of disease through meetings, publications, and educational activities.

Leadership and learning are indispensable to each other.

A Commitment to Excellence in Science

The American Society for Investigative Pathology (ASIP) is the leading international scientific society representing experimental and investigative pathologists. Since its earliest beginnings in 1946, ASIP has become a society to provide the groundwork for today’s discoveries in the understanding, diagnosis, and treatment of diseases.

Rapid advancements in biotechnology and the science of genomics have created exciting new opportunities for future discoveries and improved health care. ASIP is committed to funding initiatives focused on new discoveries in pathogenesis and its ultimate influence on disease prevention and health. ASIP is dedicated to promoting and furthering the research and educational initiatives of the Society and its members.

A Commitment to Excellence in Science

2012 marks the 9th year of the ASIP Pathology Leadership Fund campaign. To date, members of ASIP have contributed over $70,000 to the PLF to support the Society’s educational and career development initiatives. Your tax-deductible donation to the Pathology Leadership Fund can fund the educational needs of young colleagues, provide travel funds for ASIP members, and support future educational and career development initiatives.

Join with your distinguished colleagues as a Benefactor of the Pathology Leadership Fund. As a 501(c)3 not-for-profit organization, ASIP can accept tax-deductible donations to fund the educational needs of young colleagues.
