Rous-Whipple Award – 1997

Richard G. Lynch

ASIP presents the Rous-Whipple Award to a mid-career pathologist who has achieved a distinguished career in research. The ASIP Meritorious Awards Committee voted unanimously that this year's award be given to Richard G. Lynch, MD for his seminal work on immunological regulation of plasmacytomas, the mechanisms of immunodeficiency in multiple myeloma, and regulation of the Fc receptor.

A past president of the American Society for Investigative Pathology, Dr. Lynch has received many honors for his research and has been a model citizen and exemplary statesman for investigative pathology and for the larger community of biomedical science. He is also a distinguished and tough-minded leader who is known for his honesty and integrity and for his effectiveness as a mentor. Dr. Lynch is Professor and Chair of the Department of Pathology at the University of Iowa College of Medicine.
